Syllabus includes statements regarding

- CEHS Conceptual Framework. “The CEHS conceptual framework Developing the Art and Science of Teaching forms the basis for professional preparation in the College of Education and Human Services. This conceptual framework consists of six strands— content knowledge, pedagogical content knowledge or contextualized practice, diversity, technology, professionalism, and emotional intelligence—which are supported by clearly delineated objectives and deliberately designed learning experiences.”
- Attention to Diversity. The Department of [your dept. name] is committed to preparing teacher candidates to facilitate the learning experience for students with diverse needs and from diverse communities and family backgrounds. Presentations, course activities, course assignments, and supplemental materials provide examples of ways to adapt instruction for students and to collaborate with diverse families and communities. This course is designed with particular emphasis on diversity, specifically on diversities of race, class, gender, and sexual orientation. Students will discuss and develop greater competence in the understanding and implementation of teaching practices for diverse learning communities.
- Academic Integrity. “It is the policy of Wright State University to uphold and support standards of personal honesty and integrity for all students consistent with the goals of a community of scholars and students seeking knowledge and truth. Furthermore, it is the policy of the university to enforce these standards through fair and objective procedures governing instances of alleged dishonesty, cheating, and other academic misconduct.”
- Integration of Technology. [State how the course integrates technology].

- Accommodation for Disabilities Teacher candidates with a disability who may need accommodations to complete the requirements of this class, must register with the Office of Disabilities Services (Dayton Campus) or Academic Instructional Services (Lake campus) and arrange to meet with his or her professor during the first week of the term.
- Tk20. This course requires students to have a Tk20 account.
- Key Assessments. (State “Not applicable” or “This course includes the following Key Assessment(s).” and list the name of each key assessment)
